Adopted by CLAP:03/11/2003*Subject: Scope – Camping carsQuestion:

Is a liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) vessel (tank) intended to be permanently installed on camping cars for other purposes than for the functioning of the vehicle (for example for cooking or heating function) in the scope of the PED?

Answer:

Yes.

See CLAP 142 - Guideline 1/46.

Note 1: Transportable LPG cylinders which can also be used for these cars, are in the scope of ADR and as such are excluded from the PED, due to Article 1 § 3.19.

Note 2: These vessels can be covered by the national regulations on in-service inspections.
